2012-2013

Dear Valued Customers,

The most important message of the Jewish New Year is the promise of a fresh start and a recommitment to faith and one's spiritual awareness. In keeping with this message and in appreciation of your patronage, Ralphs is proud to present this beautiful calendar as our gift to you and your family.

This year's calendar is a tribute to Southern California synagogues by our photographer, Isaac Mitchell.

Ralphs is proud to be an integral part of the community. It is interesting to note that Ralphs was the first supermarket to open in Southern California in 1873 with a commitment to serving the people, being a vital contributor to the community and to putting customers first. Today, our commitment to you is stronger than ever.

We look forward to providing you with everything you need in this New Year, including an extensive selection of the finest kosher delicacies. Come find all the ingredients you need for that special potato kugel, a flaky, spicy apple strudel and so much more.

With warmest regards for a meaningful Rosh Hashanah,

Your Friends at Ralphs

WE WILL CONTINUE OUR TRIBUTE TO SYNAGOGUES IN NEXT YEAR'S CALENDAR!

A photograph of the interior of the Wilshire Boulevard Temple, showing a high, vaulted ceiling with intricate, colorful murals and wooden structural beams. The lighting is warm, and the overall atmosphere is one of historical grandeur.

Wilshire Boulevard Temple

One of the country's most highly respected Reform congregations, Wilshire Boulevard Temple has been responding to the needs of the Los Angeles Jewish community since 1862. As Congregation B'nai Brith, it was the first synagogue in Los Angeles. In 1872, the congregation built the first Temple on Fort Street (now Broadway Avenue) in downtown Los Angeles. As membership increased, the congregation moved to a larger structure at Ninth and Hope Streets in 1895. Continued growth brought the congregants to Wilshire Boulevard in 1929, which resulted in the change to the current name. The magnificent synagogue entered the United States Register of Historic Places in 1984. In response to membership growth in the West Los Angeles area, the temple dedicated the modern Audrey and Sydney Irmes Campus in 1998, located at Olympic Boulevard and S. Barrington Avenue.

A photograph of the interior of the Adat Ari El synagogue. The room features rows of dark wood pews with book holders, a central aisle, and a raised platform at the front. The walls are decorated with large, colorful stained glass windows and a menorah mounted on the wall. A chandelier hangs from the ceiling. The overall atmosphere is warm and historic.

Adat Ari El

Established in 1938 as Valley Jewish Community Center with about 100 families, - one of which was the Ratner family, of the famous New York Deli - Adat Ari El of North Hollywood is celebrating its 75th anniversary with its building on Burbank Blvd. as the oldest Jewish building in the San Fernando Valley. The congregation is also credited with founding the San Fernando Valley's first Jewish Day Camp and first Jewish nursery school.

The photograph captures the interior of Temple Beth Hillel, showcasing a series of tall, narrow windows filled with vibrant, abstract stained glass. The glass is composed of numerous small, irregular pieces in shades of blue, yellow, orange, and green, creating a kaleidoscopic effect. Sunlight filters through the glass, casting colorful patterns onto the floor and the rows of dark wooden pews that line the sanctuary. The pews are arranged in a traditional layout, facing towards the front of the temple. A white rectangular sign is visible on one of the lower windows, though its text is not legible. The overall atmosphere is one of modern religious architecture.

Temple Beth Hillel

Founded in 1946, Temple Beth Hillel is the oldest Reform congregation serving the San Fernando Valley. Beth Hillel is credited with starting the Community Counseling Center. Today, it houses a sanctuary, religious school and the Beth Hillel Day School.

A photograph of the interior of Congregation Beth Israel. The sanctuary features dark wood paneling and a curved ceiling with recessed lighting. On the left, a large mural depicts a biblical scene with figures and a crown. The front of the sanctuary is dominated by a large, ornate ark (Aron Kodesh) with Hebrew inscriptions and a menorah. Below the ark is a balcony with a Star of David railing. The foreground shows rows of wooden pews.

Congregation Beth Israel

The oldest Orthodox congregation in Los Angeles, Beth Israel was founded in 1899 by the merger of three congregations. The early synagogue at 227 Olive Street was dedicated on April 13, 1902, and it was used until 1940. It was a rather large building with twin towers with domes at the tops, also called the Olive Street Shul. The building was located on Bunker Hill, an area that was redeveloped in the 1960s. Today, its home is on Beverly Blvd. near Crescent Heights.

The Sephardic community in Los Angeles was founded in 1920 while early pioneers were of Sephardic origin. In 1931, the first of several buildings were constructed to serve the community on Santa Barbara and La Salle Avenues. In 1933, a Talmud Torah school was added, and in 1959, was re-named the Sephardic Community and Brotherhood of Los Angeles. In 1970, ground was broken at the current location on Wilshire Blvd. and Warner Avenue, and in 1981, the congregation moved into its new building with dedication services. In 1993, Temple Tifereth Israel and Sephardic Beth Shalom merged to form what is now Sephardic Temple Tifereth Israel, and serves more than 600 families.

Shomrei Torah

Originally founded as the dream of Rabbi Eli Shochet as a day school to fill the needs of Jewish families in the West Valley, Shomrei Torah was born out of the union of Congregations Beth Kodesh and Beth Ami in 1994. A vibrant Conservative congregation, Shomrei Torah sits on a plot of land on Valley Circle in the West Valley and houses a sanctuary, education center and a Judaica curriculum which has a special "Hebrew Immersion" program called "Ma'aleh" for grades K-12.

Stephen S. Wise

The Reform congregation was initiated in 1964 with 35 families and met at St. Albin's Episcopal Church. In 1970, the congregation acquired Westwood Temple on top of Mulholland Drive and Sepulveda, where it is located today. Stephen S. Wise is one of the largest Jewish congregations in the world, with 3,000 families, six rabbis, 2 cantors and four schools on three campuses, including the Milken Community High School.

A photograph of the interior of the Sinai Temple. The central focus is a large, ornate wooden ark with its double doors open. Inside the ark, a red curtain is pulled back to reveal a golden menorah and three Torah scrolls. The ark is flanked by large, light-colored columns. Above the ark, a large, multi-paned skylight allows natural light into the sanctuary. Stained glass windows are visible on the side walls. In the foreground, rows of wooden pews are visible, some with dark cushions. The overall atmosphere is one of a modern, well-lit synagogue.

Sinai Temple

Established in 1906, Sinai Temple was the first Conservative congregation in Southern California, having first met on Figueroa Street, then moved to 12th and Valencia, and then to 4th and New Hampshire before finally moving into its present home on Wilshire Blvd. and Beverly Glen in 1956. In 1986, Akiba Academy merged with Sinai to create Sinai-Akiba Academy, the largest accredited Jewish Day School in the California association of Independent Schools. Sinai Temple remains the oldest and largest Conservative congregation in Los Angeles.

Valley Beth Shalom

Established in the early 1950s, Valley Beth Shalom's first home in the San Fernando Valley was in an old school which was brought in from Long Beach. As the congregation grew, it moved to a motel on Densmore and Ventura Boulevard. In the 1960s, the foundation was laid for the main sanctuary and social hall, and soon the day school was founded in the early 1970s. By the 1980s, with more growth, the parking lot was expanded and a new synagogue center began to take form. Valley Beth Shalom is on Newsweek's list of America's 25 Most Vibrant Congregations.

Temple Israel of Hollywood

Temple Israel was founded in 1926 after three community leaders, including filmmaker Ed Laemmle met at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel and decided a congregation was needed in the Hollywood area. Until the 1950s, the congregation met in a small building which was purchased as a result of a fundraiser at the Pantages Theatre. The current synagogue was built in 1948, and in 1957, the congregation purchased Hillside Memorial Park. In 1985, Temple Israel underwent a multi-million dollar renovation. Today, it serves 1,000 families and includes three schools.
